

Allied GIS Joins VUEWorks Partner Program

Concord, New Hampshire – Dec. 29th, 2009 – VUEWorks, Inc. today announced that Allied GIS, Inc. has joined its channel sales partner program, covering Colorado and Alaska. Allied GIS, which is also an ESRI business partner, provides GIS, imagery, internet, and database solutions for infrastructure and environmental projects serving clients in private industry, Native, military, city, county, and federal government.

Allied GIS has recently opened a new office in Louisville, Colorado to meet growing demand for GIS and GIS-integrated solutions in the western United States. Colorado is home to both the Federal GIS Center and a large GIS community. Commented Gail Morrison, Allied GIS' president: "Allied GIS are data integration experts. VUEWorks is a strategic addition to our solutions portfolio, providing a web-based, easy-to-use platform for Computerized Maintenance Management Systems (CMMS) and strategically managing infrastructure assets. We see a tremendous opportunity to expand our business in the western United States and are thrilled to have this sales territory for VUEWorks. Our new Louisville office will strengthen our business and compliment our existing staff in California, Alaska, and Hawaii."

Commented Kenneth Spalding, P.E., Sales Manager for VUEWorks: "Allied GIS' broad client base spans all levels of government and oil & gas corporations. Partnering with Allied GIS will help us serve our core municipal clientele in the western U.S. better, and offers us a fantastic opportunity to expand into the Colorado and Alaska markets. We are very excited to team up with Allied GIS."
